

Sizes

28 (32, 36, 40) 44 [48, 52, 56] 60 (64, 68) inch bust circumference (your actual bust). This pattern is intended to have 5-11 inches of positive ease.

Finished Sweater Measurements

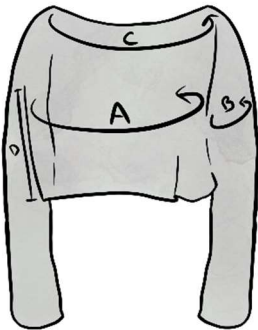

There are 2 different gauges for this sweater so there are 3 different size charts. The pattern is the same, but the fit will vary depending on which gauge/yarn you choose to use. The fingering weight version I made (the fall fade colors) had a very similar gauge to the single strand of mohair, so I did not add those calculations to simplify things.

Gauge

17 stitches x 24 rows = 4 inches knit in the round with a single strand of mohair

Size (Inches)	28	32	36	40	44	48	52	56	60	64	68
Your Actual Bust	28	32	36	40	44	48	52	56	60	64	68

Notions

-  8 stitch markers and a unique marker for BOR
-  Scrap yarn or spare circular needles/cords for holding live stitches
-  Darning Needle or Crochet Hook for weaving in ends
-  Scissors or Snips

Yarn

The gram and yardage estimates are based on the on the single strand of mohair version with short sleeves (pink) and the double strand of suri with long sleeves (white). If you lengthen the body or sleeves you may need more yarn than what is listed.

-  Short Sleeve version made with one strand of mohair (pink)
 - Estimated Yardage Required: 309 (349, 385, 421) 457 [495, 534, 573] 613 (652, 691)
-  Long Sleeve version made with 2 strands of suri held together (white)
 - Estimated Yardage Required: 1,040 (1,179, 1,288, 1,392) 1,496 [1,634, 1,767, 1,906] 2,039 (2,207, 2,340)

Needles

US 10/ 6 mm circulars (16" cord length depending on your chosen size and preference)

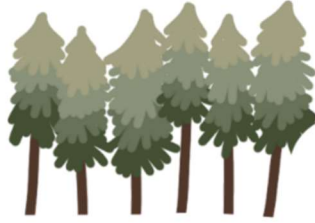

Pattern Notes

-  I've made this pattern multiple times playing around with the yarn used each time. The first was with a single strand of mohair, then suri held double, and even a single strand a fingering.
-  This pattern uses the German short row technique to provide shaping for the shoulders.
